made of sawdust and water. This was discarded when the dish was done, but had some nutrition from the pulces which it absorbed. It was this "pie crust," usually regarded as uneatable, to which she referred.

And it may be added that the food scientists of the present day are discoving that the cellulous or woody fibre, practically sawdust, which is present in some food substances and which is supposed to have been worthless food matter, has so office to perform in digestion which is not unimportant—a fact that things that are regarded by older and wiser heads as being not exactly seemly or befitting to their sex.

There is no one who believes in the goest intentions of young girls more firmly than the writer of these lines, who has seen many errors made through the mistaken idea that in order to be at tractive a girl must be slangy and adopt the contractive of the con tractive a girl must be slangy and adopt a freedom of speech and deportment that argues against rather than for her, I ou can have just as good a time if you are have just as good a time if you are a young woman and as such demanding the respect and courtesy of all men, whether old or young, with whom you come in contact.

come in contact. You can row, swim, play tennis and include in all the other outdoor amusements that men are especially fond of, and yet at the same time you can be so entirely womanly that the very masculines whose sport you join will never in-fringe upon the fact that you do all of these things as well as they themselves and treat you in consequence as a boy. It is perfectly delightful to tramp about from morning until night in a blazer costume that is comfortable and yet stylish, but it is not necessary to convert yourself into a tomboy in order to or thoroughly you are enjoying the outdoor liberty. MODISH TOTLETS FROM LATE PARISIAN DESIGN: reflects an additional lustre of wisdom on the heretofore traditionally silly ut-terance of the French queen.

There is a young colored damsel in Washington whose soul is at present filled with wrath because of the summary action taken by a society woman to whom she had been handmaiden. With ways that are dark and tricks that mently protesting her innocence, long afterward as the daughter of Ham was sailing down the street in all the glory of the stolen garment she came upon her mistress rapidly walking topose in her eye. Retreat was impossi-ble, as was a failure to comply with the astonishing demand that she then and there divest herself of the gown. As the alternative was to be im-mediately handed over to the police, the perturbed young wo-man did as she was bid with all speed possible, and in as brief a time as it takes to tell the tale she stood with her ebony perfections exposed to public view, while in an opposite direction her former mistress walked away, bearing

To keep shades from streaking, dust them every time the room is swept. Do this by drawing the shade down to its full length and using a feather duster along the front and over the roller. As you roll up the shade keep on dusting the roller. You will by this means brush both sides, for they roll up from the outside. Care should also be taken now that the season of open windows and sudden showers are at hand that when windows are opened from the top the shades shall be tightly rolled, otherwise they will be spotted before you are aware of it.

Satisfactory Sofa Cover.

How often do we find the cover on the sitting room loungs in an untidy wrinkle! We reforce that we have at last found a cover that will stay where it is put. Wishing to protect our brocade plush lounge from soil, we procured two and one half parch of figures! cotton finnes. As the figures were stamped on both sides, the wrong side was just as pretty as the right, except that it did not have that soft look. We spread it over the lounge, merely to keep the right side bright and clean. To our surprise and delight, it stuck to the plush like bark to a tree, and though the lounge is in constant use, there is never a wrinkle on the cover. The long map of the cotton finnes! will adhere to mohair or Brussels carpeting also.—Housekseper's Weekly.
